Centre Manager's Training Day

Inigo's Centre Managers

Inigo places great store in the training and development of its employees. Well motivated Centre Managers make for successful business centres. At the beginning of May the centre managers converged on the Newbury Centre, Wessex House for a whole day of training in management and leadership.

Giles Curtis, Managing Director, says "We try to get our managers together from their different locations across the country as frequently as possible in order to develop and strengthen team bonds. Days such as the one last month are always enjoyable and our clients as well as Inigo benefit from our centre managers being regularly invigorated with fresh ideas and new keenness to provide high class business support."
